

AIR QUALITY ISSUES IN TEXAS CITY

Bruce Clawson

Emergency Manager and Homeland Security Director, Texas City, Texas.

ABSTRACT

During any event real time data about air quality is difficult to obtain, process and react to. Obviously, knowledge of what is occurring and where in any community can sometimes be a matter of life and death; but producing that knowledge is a difficult task on any day.

Texas City has moved into the second of three steps using real time data, processing that data in a timely fashion and reacting to that data in a real environment.
